

CITING PUBLIC POLICY SOURCES

OPPOSING VIEWPOINTS RESOURCE CENTER	Koch, Kathy. "The Debate over Drunk-Driving Laws: An Overview." Contemporary Issues Companion: Drunk Driving. Ed. Louise I. Gerdes. San Diego: Greenhaven Press, 2005. Opposing Viewpoints Resource Center. Gale. Web. 2 Oct. 2008.	I modified the citation provided at the bottom of the article. The formatting doesn't transfer, so I had to italicize the titles and indent after the first line.
CQ RESEARCHER	Cooper, Mary H. "Endangered Species Act." CQ Researcher 3 Jun 2005: 493-516. CQ Researcher Online. CQ Press. Web. 2 Oct. 2008.	I used the MLA citation provided by CQ Researcher Online, BUT I changed the way the date is formatted.
PROQUEST: Newspaper article	Rob Stein. "A Vaccine Debate Once Focused on Sex Shifts as Boys Join the Target Market." The Washington Post 26 Mar. 2009, Washington Post, ProQuest. Web. 8 Oct. 2009.	I used the MLA citation provided by ProQuest; I needed to make only a few minor changes.
WEBSITE: ProCon.org	"Illegal Immigration." ProCon.org. ProCon.org. 7 Oct. 2009. Web. 8 Oct. 2009.	I can include only the information I find on the website; on this site I couldn't find an author.
WEBSITE: Public Agenda	"Issue Guide: Race: Overview." Public Agenda for Citizens. Public Agenda, n.d. Web. 28 Oct. 2009.	There is no publication or copyright date, so I included the abbreviation n.d., for no date.
PRO/CON Chapter (a print resource)	"Should Doctors Be Able to Assist in Euthanasia?" Science. Ed. Tim Cooke. Vol. 5. Pro/Con ser. Danbury, CT: Grolier Educational, 2002. Print.	I used EasyBib to make this citation. I checked with the MLA Handbook in the Library to be sure it looked correct.
